

Bathroom Interior Design Trends 2019

Every year we see predictions for the interior design trends for the months ahead. If your hotel bathrooms are in need of an update, one of the trends for 2019 could be the perfect way to refresh your interior.

Why Is Bathroom Interior Important?

In modern times bathrooms are very much a multi-functional room, being both a practical space in the morning to carry out personal care and get energised for the day ahead, as well as a tranquil haven in which to relax during the evening. Lighting needs to reflect this challenge, and a good solution is to use pendants for ambient lighting combined with wall lights for task lighting. IP Ratings also need to be taken into consideration, although it's worth remembering that there is no IP rating requirement for using lights in zone 3, so don't limit yourself to just 'bathroom lights' for areas which don't require an IP rating.

Go Nude

The new season is set to see nude tones making a comeback and they work incredibly well in a bathroom, inviting lots of natural light. With peach, cappuccino and beige tones already proving popular, glass pendants are a great finishing touch, as they won't distract from the nude colour palette. Quality raw brass and copper tones also work beautifully with a nude colour palette, and the metallic really lifts the whole scheme.

Expose Elements

We've seen a rise of interior designers embracing industrial chic, exposing raw elements which would usually be concealed. In bathrooms this year we'll see more exposed shower plumbing. If you want to achieve the industrial look in your hotel bathrooms but don't have any raw materials that can be exposed, you can easily replicate the look with brick wallpaper, industrial lights and looking for accessories that are made of raw materials.

Be Bare

For the ultimately 'barely-there' nude look, consider a bare light. LED vintage bulbs have taken the world of interior design by storm in recent years, and it's not difficult to see why. With their clean, minimalist style, LED energy-saving bulbs look great in the bathroom, and they are as practical as they are decorative, as you won't need to replace the bulb for years. The increased wattage of modern LEDs provides a warm and relaxing glow that can be used in combination with incandescent bulbs for a polished finish.

Back To Basics

There's been a rise in the popularity of copper and brass accents in bathrooms the past few years, bringing a warm tone to interiors. Although copper and brass will continue to bring a luxurious feel to bathrooms, we're also going to see pewter and gunmetal metallics making a comeback. With the rise of patterned tiles and dark marble, cooler-toned metals such as pewter and gunmetal look visually more blended when paired with these styles.

Brighten It Up With Art

2019 is all about making an artistic statement and what better way to do so than by incorporating artwork in your hotel bathrooms. Art adds uniqueness and character to any given space and has the ability to brighten up a bathroom in seconds. We like to celebrate aspiring artists, and our showroom walls are dedicated to their unique art, you can browse the beautiful and rare art here.

This bathroom interior has achieved a nautical theme by incorporating some sea-inspired lighting, a small round mirror that mimics a boat window and a sailor themed piece of artwork. The artwork not only sets the theme, but it also introduces some colour to the interior. If your hotel is based near the seaside, this could be the perfect theme for you!

Make A Statement

If you want your hotel bathroom interiors to stand out, the easiest way is to add a statement mirror. Statement mirrors have been on the rise over the past few months, and we'll see no slowing down this year. If you want something contemporary and classic, opt for a nude shade mirror, and if it's a modern finish you want to convey then metallic mirrors are your best bet. Mirrors come in all shapes and sizes, from round and rectangle to crazy shapes!

The round minimalistic mirror above works perfectly with this interior because the colour of the room is bold as it is therefore the simple design is all that is needed. The considerable size of the mirror is what makes it the main feature in this bathroom!

Go Bold

This year bathroom interior will be divided between nudes and the continuously popular dark interiors. Go bold and take a leaf out of spa interior with black bathrooms. Darker colours have the ability to make a room feel smaller, so if you've got smaller hotel bathrooms, add touches of black rather than lashes, for a bold yet minimalistic décor.

Go Geometric

An unexpected bathroom choice, geometric tiles are fast becoming a bathroom favourite. There are various patterns and shapes available, whether you opt for neutral tones to blend in or statement patterns to amplify the interior, we are going to see more patterns in the bathroom!

Opt For Waterproof Lighting

We understand the need for stylish yet practical lighting here at Industville, that's why we've created a waterproof range. Coming in a variety of our finishes, our waterproof lights are IP20, IP44 and IP65 rated, so can be placed in the trickier areas of the bathroom!
